Bonds are fixed-income instrument that represents a loan made by an investor to a borrower (typically corporate or governmental).

Property: investment interest in a real estate company (usually listed) directly or through a collective investment scheme.

Derivatives are financial contracts, set between two or more parties, that derive their value from an underlying asset, group of assets or benchmark.

Money Market Instruments represent a short-term loan between banks and other financial institutions.

Hedge Funds are investment pools employing diverse strategies for accredited investors, aiming to achieve returns regardless of market conditions.

Private Equities represent ownership or interest in entities that are not publicly listed or traded.

Private Debt are non-bank lending to private companies, offering diverse financing structures beyond traditional bank loans.

Structured Products are custom investment vehicles combining securities or derivatives to provide specific risk-return profiles

Total Expense Ratio is the global standard used to measure the impact that the deduction of management and operating costs have on a fund's value. It gives you an indication of the effects these costs have on the future growth of your investment portfolio. A higher TER does not necessarily imply a poor return, nor does a low TER imply a good return. Also, the current TER may not necessarily be an accurate indication of future TERs.

Quarterly commentary

In 2025, South Africa's economy demonstrated resilience despite global turbulence. South Africa's economy grew by 0.5% q/q (2.1% y/y) in Q3/25, driven by robust domestic demand and improving household consumption. Growth for 2025 has been revised upward to 1.3% and is expected to improve gradually to around 1.4% in 2026. The economy remains supported by strong institutions, a credible inflation-targeting regime, deep financial markets, and ongoing reforms in electricity and logistics. Inflation has been stable between 3-4%, and with the Minister of Finance approving a 3% target, inflation is anticipated to converge toward this level over the coming quarters. This enabled the South African Reserve Bank to cut its repo rate by 0.25% to 6.75% in November. Risks remain tilted to the downside, driven by global geopolitical tensions, trade barriers, and domestic structural constraints. Progress on structural reforms—energy, logistics, and digital infrastructure—was made during the year but at a slower pace than required. Greater emphasis on private-sector-led growth, electricity market liberalization, competition in rail and ports, governance strengthening, labour market reform, and regional trade integration is critical to shift the growth trajectory. Positive developments in Q4/25 included South Africa's removal from the Financial Action Task Force grey list and Standard & Poor's upgrade of the country's long-term foreign currency credit rating from BB- to BB with a positive outlook. Political uncertainty ahead of next year's local government elections and the functioning of the government of national unity may keep investors cautious.

In Q4/25, the U.S. economy grew by approximately 1.1%, with unemployment holding steady at 4.4%. Inflation remained elevated but showed signs of moderation, prompting the Federal Reserve to cut interest rates by 25 basis points to 3.5-3.75%. For Q1/26, growth is expected to slow to around 0.8%, inflation to ease slightly, and the Fed to maintain a cautious stance amid labour market resilience. The Eurozone recorded GDP growth of about 1.2% in Q4/25, with unemployment near 4.8% and inflation averaging 2.1%. The European Central Bank kept rates around 2%, signalling a data-dependent approach. In Q1/26, growth is projected to soften to roughly 1.0% as trade headwinds persist, while inflation cools toward 1.7%. China's economy expanded by approximately 5.0% y/y in Q4/25, supported by accommodative monetary policy and fiscal measures. Inflation hovered near zero, and the People's Bank of China continued easing through reserve requirement and rate cuts. In Q1/26, growth is expected to moderate to around 4.5%, with inflation edging up to 0.8% as stimulus measures take effect.

Throughout the first quarter, the fund's equity exposure decreased to 51%, caused by market volatility amid global tensions. Bond allocation decreased slightly to 26%, continuing to provide a defensive anchor through government and high-quality instruments. Property exposure stayed unchanged at 3%, while the balance of the portfolio was held in cash. Despite ongoing global uncertainty, we remain prudent in our positioning, maintaining sufficient liquidity to act decisively on attractive opportunities.
